SUPPORT WORKERS AT FOUR SCHOOLS FACE AXE OVER CASH CUTS

Academy trust boss says it is acting in the future interests of pupils

Gemma Gardner

TEACHING assistants, dinner ladies, cleaners and caretakers are facing the axe at four Harlow schools run by Burnt Mill Academy Trust (BMAT).

The proposed cuts will affect all six BMAT primary and secondary schools – Burnt Mill, Cooks Spinney, Freshwaters and Little Parndon in Harlow, Roydon Primary and Forest Hall in Stansted.

The trust has not released details of how many jobs are at risk or how much money will be saved by the move but said high-quality teaching was its priority.

Secure

Chief executive Helena Mills said: "We know that everything we do over the next few months will enable us to secure the future of the schools and the children who attend them."

Harlow MP Robert Halfon said he was "incredibly concerned" and would offer help to anyone affected by the plans.

Mr Halfon has met with schools minister Nick Gibb, and is looking at the financing of BMAT.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE: Chief executive Helena Mills said everything the trust does is doing is about securing the future of the schools

Academy trust set to axe support staff jobs

MP concerned over plans to cut workforce at BMAT schools

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

SUPPORT staff at four Harlow schools run by Burnt Mill Academy Trust are facing redundancy under plans announced on Monday.

The jobs of workers including teaching assistants, dinner ladies, cleaners and caretakers have been told by the trust, which is planning to open a sixth form on the former Passmores School in Tendring Road next year, that their jobs are under threat.

The proposed cuts at all six BMAT primary and secondary schools - Burnt Mill, Cooks Spinney, Freshwaters and Little Parndon in Harlow, Roydon Primary and Forest Hall in Stansted - have shocked Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who has since met with schools minister Nick Gibb.

"The news is incredibly concerning, and I'd like to know why," he said. "Anyone affected by the proposals can contact me and I will do everything I can to help."

BMAT released a statement which confirmed the staff cuts but did not give details of where exactly the axe would fall - although all of its schools would be affected.

It also declined to put a figure on the potential cash savings but insisted high quality teaching was its priority.

Chief executive Helena Mills said: "We know that everything we do over the next few months will enable us to secure the future of the schools and the children who attend them."

Enrichment

"We want to be able to continue to offer our extensive enrichment opportunities so children can take part in horse riding, musical tuition and other experiences at no additional cost to parents."

This week parents have taken to social media to share their concerns.

Laura Karlsson said: "Ultimately this is about our children and their education and if that is being put at risk, then we need to do something about it. Without support staff some children will not reach their potential and isn't that what BMAT are about, children fulfilling their potential?"

Vicky Savill added: "My son doesn't want horse riding lessons at six years old, he wants someone there if he's hurt or help [him] with reading."

It is understood, but not confirmed, that more than three-quarters of the support staff at Little Parndon will be axed and more than half at Cooks Spinney.

Ms Mills said: "This does not impact on teachers. We know that outstanding teachers are what our children need. The plans will ensure that each school has sufficient funds to run their schools to provide excellent outcomes for our children."

Following the announcement the Star contacted Passmores Academy, Mark Hall Academy and Stewards Academy for comment.

Stewards Academy headteacher Rhonda Murthar said: "We are not making any staff redundant but we are faced with financial reductions over the next few years which may force us to cut costs. However, we have no need to make staff redundant."

The other schools had not responded by the time the Star went to press.

Unanswered questions

THE Star submitted a number of questions to the Burnt Mill Academy Trust in the wake of Monday's announcement. Some of them were answered but these received no response:

- How many people are affected by the proposals? Can this be broken down by individual school?
- When does the consultation run until?
- Can you confirm that staff have been asked not to speak to the media as it would be a breach of confidentiality?
- How much money does the trust expect to save by making support staff redundant?

Happy ending for tale of shockingly neglected dog

Jack Russell to live with RSPCA inspector who rescued her

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DOG rescued by animal welfare officers after being found with an untreated tumour on the side of her face has been given a new home with the RSPCA inspector who saved her.

The huge growth on the six-year-old Jack Russell terrier called Molly had become infected, ulcerated and burst, leaving an open wound.

RSPCA inspector Rebecca Benson, who was sent to check on Molly after the charity received an anonymous tip-off from someone concerned at her condition.

"I could smell the infection before I even saw her," said Rebecca. "I was in absolutely shock when I saw the size of the tumour.

"Thankfully, her owner signed her over to the RSPCA as she couldn't afford the treatment for her tumour."

On Thursday the owner, Maria Draper, 48, of Shawbridge, Harlow, admitted neglecting the dog when she pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Magistrates Court to one offence of causing unnecessary suffering by failing to provide veterinary care.

Sentence

She was given an 18-week jail sentence, suspended for 12 months, ordered to complete 100 hours of unpaid work and pay costs of £380.

After being rescued, Molly was taken to a vet who performed an operation to remove the tumour which proved successful.

But that was not the end of the story for Rebecca, who could not get the little terrier out of her mind.

"I was amazed when the vet said that the tumour could be removed and she had a good chance of recovering," she said. "It was at that moment I decided she would be coming home with me once she was better."

Now, almost five months later, Molly has a new name – she is called Ellie – and has made herself at home with Rebecca. She has also made friends with Rebecca's other dog, a Chihuahua-cross called Odin.

"Ellie is brilliant, she has fitted in so perfectly," said Rebecca. "She's such a happy little terrier, it's like she's a different dog."

MUSH! Terry Card with dogs George and Ben in their sled

Dog sled Santa helps hospice

A KIND-hearted pensioner has raised more than £800 for St Clare Hospice.

Terry Card, 79, of Fern Hill Lane, Harlow, collected donations from shoppers when he took his pet Chihuahuas George and Ben in their handmade sledge to Tesco at Church Langley, Asda in The Water Gardens and North Weald market in the run-up to Christmas.

"It went really well and I was very pleased," said Mr Card. "I chose to donate the money to St Clare as it's quite personal to me because my mum had been a patient there.

"I was also a funeral director for 20 years so I have become familiar with the hospice and know the money is going to a good cause."

Mr Card has been volunteering at Pets as Therapy for eight years and regularly takes his canine companions on visits to hospitals, hospices, care homes and schools.

Tory group call to return streetlight cash to taxpayers

CONSERVATIVES on Harlow Council are demanding that thousands of pounds paid by taxpayers to keep the town's street lights on all night should be returned.

Tory councillors, who have put forward a series of alternative budget proposals to those of the ruling Labour group, say £59,000 is sitting in a reserve fund doing nothing.

Cllr Russell Perrin, the shadow portfolio holder for resources who presented the Conservative proposals at Thursday's full council meeting, said the authority announced last year it had reached an agreement with Essex County Council to keep the lights on, a move which was to be funded by increasing council tax.

"Later we found no agreement had been made but the council continued to tax residents," said Cllr Perrin.

"Now the lights are on the £59,000 that was taken has been put into a reserve and they propose to do nothing with it.

Rebate

"We say the full amount is returned through a council tax rebate."

However, council leader Jon Clempner responded by saying the £59,000 had been kept in reserve to ensure the authority would be in a position to continue to pay the cost of street lighting without having to raise taxes again.

The Tories also proposed to reduce cabinet expenditure and allowances by £280,000 in order to freeze council tax while at the same time maintaining frontline services. This included the return of the weekly nappy and incontinence waste collection.

Cllr Perrin said the Tory group budgeted £20,000 for parks and playgrounds as well as reserving funds for celebrations such as the Queen's 90th birthday and Battle of the Somme centenary.

Issues

"This budget amendment takes into account the big issues and concerns that we are facing in the town," he added. "The Conservative group is doing its bit to help the hardworking people of this town with the cost of living."

Cllr Clempner replied: "Our budget is about sustainability and yours is about short-term quick fixes."

After the Conservative's spending proposals were defeated by the Labour majority, Cllr Perrin said: "We will come back next year, continue to ask questions and demand answers."

■ On Tuesday Conservative-controlled Essex County Council approved 1.99 per cent hike in its council tax precept. The Government's Social Care Levy of two per cent will also be introduced.

Councillors were told the authority faces having to save more than £1million every week for the next four years. The rise is the equivalent of 84p a week for the average Band D property.

Policing the community

SIR In his On The Beat article in the Star, Inspector Paul Maleary wrote: "We rely on you to tell us when something is not right."

One question we should like answered is how? I do not know my beat officer and I cannot remember when a police officer actually walked down our street.

Harlow Common Residents' Forum campaigned for a police office in Potter Street, which was closed and the local policing team disbanded. HCRF set up and manned two police surgeries in Harlow Common ward; these were not supported by the police inspector at the time and just faded away.

HCRF runs a quarterly police forum but it is years since we had a police officer attend and now even our PCSOs are noticeable by their absence.

Members of HCRF went on a course to set up Neighbourhood Action Panels operating to Home Office recommendations and conforming to MP Louise Casey's Respect agenda. Towards the end this was badly attended by the police and then closed down in favour of a police-run townwide NAP.

The police and council officers meet regularly at a Joint Action Group meeting to decide the policing priorities for our neighbourhoods. Police officers we don't know and council officers who do not know our estates or issues decide how we are policed—that sounds about right.

HCRF ran a number of community mapping exercises with our beat officer, PCSO, housing officers, fire service, community safety team and residents. These produced overwhelming intelligence for the police and highlighted so many estate/housing issues that support was withdrawn and HCRF volunteers were unable to continue.

Maybe Inspector Maleary can tell us how many community police inspectors we have had since the excellent Inspector Bob Adams was moved on? Where are they now?

Let's have some proper community policing in Harlow Common again.

■ Harlow Star Tog Squad member Gemma Payne received some very positive feedback when she posted this photo looking over the River Stort from The Moorhen pub in Harlow which she took last summer. "It was a last minute shot on the way back to the car park," she wrote.

Please remember to include your name and address.

Time to take drastic action

SIR I write in response to the story headlined "Inspector calls time on pavement parking" (Star, January 28).

Where does Inspector Paul Maleary suggest people park when the estates are littered with commercial vehicles?

If they were banned from housing estates it would enable residents to park and allow pedestrians to use the pathways again.

Also, how about restricting the amount of vehicles that can be registered to each household?

Drastic measures are needed as the problem has been ignored for far too long.

Name and address supplied

There is an easier answer

SIR We are told police will be giving warnings to people who park on the pavements and constant offenders will be fined, but wouldn't it be easier not to allow the parking of company vehicles in the town?

There are many companies in the town that own large fleets of vehicles, some with very large vans or lorries.

As most families in Harlow own more than one vehicle, the parking of a company vehicle could mean there are families trying to park three or more vehicles close to their homes.

Brian Hood
Harlow

Fine culprits from the start

SIR How good it is to see that at long last the powers that be have come to their senses on illegal pavement parking. However, I do not think what is proposed will make much difference.

Just go for the jugular and fine the offenders from the start.

A big problem is commercial vehicles parked in housing areas.

And why stop at pavement parking? What about the blocking of dropped kerbs, mostly at junctions, and selfish parking on grassland areas again at junctions, making it an eyesore to the area.

Name and address supplied

Don't punish the children

SIR I would like to draw your readers attention to the plight of thousands of children across the UK and the fact that the prison system is jeopardising thousands of children's right to see their dads.

Barnardo's recent survey of the prison visiting system in England and Wales finds that visiting hours are increasingly being taken away to punish prisoners, leaving some children with just two hours a month to visit their dad.

Although the survey finds that pockets of good practice exist, the number of prisoners awarded just two-hour visits has soared by 52 per cent since the Incentives and Earned Privileges scheme was changed in 2013. Meanwhile, those awarded the enhanced status of four or more visiting hours has fallen by 16 per cent.

But children with a parent in prison are the innocent victims of someone else's crime. They struggle with the heartbreak of having their parent suddenly taken away and often don't understand why.

Intensifying that loss by taking away precious hours with their parent, or making visits unnecessarily uncomfortable, will only punish the children.

Having a parent in prison can leave children more likely to develop mental health issues, underperform at school and go on to offend themselves.

A review by the Ministry of Justice found that 65 per cent of boys with a convicted parent go on to offend, but that regular visiting can help cut dads' reoffending by 39 per cent.

It's time for a sea change in the way these overlooked and isolated children are treated. Government and prisons must work together to ensure that the visiting system, whilst recognising the need for security, never punishes children.

Jonathan Whalley, director
Barnardo's South East and Anglia

Concerns over Sunday trading

SIR Local shopworkers are very concerned about the Government's plans to devolve Sunday trading hours to councils and the effects that will have on family life, local shops and the community.

The change could lead to large shops opening for longer, even though they are already trading for up to 150 out of 168 hours a week, so shopworkers will have even less time to spend with their families.

It won't help small stores which are already allowed to open whenever they like and may put some of them out of business.

This is a solution looking for a problem that doesn't exist. It isn't even clear who is actually calling for this change, with many retailers opposing it.

The Sunday Trading Act is a great British compromise which has worked well for more than 20 years and gives everyone a little bit of what they want. Retailers can trade, customers can shop, staff can work whilst Sunday remains a special day, different to other days and shopworkers can spend some time with their family.

We encourage Star readers to let your MP, Robert Halfon, know what you think so their vote in Parliament reflects local views.

John Hannett, general secretary
Union of Shop, Distributive and Allied Workers

Do you know a Heart Hero?

SIR I would like to invite Star readers to nominate someone for a British Heart Foundation 'Heart Hero' award which recognise the incredible efforts people make to fight heart disease.

Ask yourself who has impressed you with their drive and determination to make a difference.

They might be someone who's campaigning for better health services, a brilliant fundraiser or a heart patient who's inspiring others by overcoming daily challenges.

Heart disease continues to devastate the lives of millions of people but in every community there are individuals striving to change that and these awards exist to celebrate their work.

If someone you know deserves an award, please nominate them online at bhf.org.uk/heartheroes.

Petition calls for council support to save Square

SUPPORTERS of The Square have presented a 755-name petition to Harlow Council as part of their campaign to keep the music venue in the town.

Speaking at last Thursday's full council meeting, Emma Batrick said: "The Square has been part of Harlow's community for over 35 years. It's a place where big names will play, mix records or tell jokes one night and local schools and college groups will get on the stage the next."

"Even for those that aren't performing it's somewhere to come together and be creative, be part of a culture, socialise with like-minded people and create friendships that will last a lifetime."

The Square closed at the end of December after landowner Circle Housing submitted an application to redevelop the site.

Council leader Jon Clempner said: "We have been having an ongoing dialogue with the management of The Square. If the owners come forward with a specific request it will be considered sympathetically."

Deputy leader Emma Toal added: "We love the building but it always had a limited life and it needs a new venue to carry on in the community."

"I will continue to fight with The Square to make sure it stays part of Harlow's community."

Tex-Mex chain's restaurant plan

DESIGN: How the restaurant might look

TEX-MEX restaurant chain Chiquito is planning to open in the former Burger King premises at the Queensgate Centre in Harlow.

Around 60 jobs – 35 full-time and 25 part-time – will be created if the company is granted permission to convert the former fast-food eatery.

Chiquito is part of The Restaurant Group which also owns the Frankie and Benny's, Garfunkels and Coast to Coast outlets.

Vet's warning of 'dog tick' danger

Parasite thought to be established in Harlow field

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

DOG owners are being warned to be on alert after three animals in Harlow showed symptoms they had been infected with a potentially fatal parasite-spread disease.

Clive Swainsbury, practice partner at Forest Veterinary Centre group in Eastwick, said all three dogs fell ill after walking in the same field in the town.

"This is potentially very serious," said Mr Swainsbury, who oversees surgeries in Eastwick, Epping and Woodford. "We are not certain but confident the disease [babesiosis] has been established in a field between the former Passmores School and the town centre."

Spread by a single tick, this strand of babesiosis is specific to dogs and can be life-threatening if left untreated. It leaves animals suffering from lethargy, weakness, pale gums and fever. Their urine is also coloured red/brown.

Transfusion

Babesiosis can be prevented through anti-tick treatment but there is no vaccine in the UK and infected dogs may need a blood transfusion.

"This is a new disease to the country that originates from eastern and southern Europe," said Mr Swainsbury. "The Government is interested and is going to be screening the area. We have taken a tick from a dog and it's going to be taken away for analysis."

"A couple of years ago it was the situation that you would bring a foreign dog into the country and it would be tested for ticks, but this has been relaxed. With the number of people that are bringing rescue dogs into the country it could bring the spread of infected ticks."

"My worry is that this disease can now be a problem in this country and the start of something bigger."

One of the infected dogs – a three-year-old husky called Mishka – belongs to Lisa Hall, 42, of Kingsland, Harlow. "She is a very active and is never lethargic or ill, but one day she stopped eating and became so tired all the time she did not even move when I came in," she said.

After vets diagnosed Mishka with anaemia her condition worsened. "It was horrendous," said Lisa. "Her eyes turned yellow and her gums became very pale."

"One evening her stomach began to sag and we rushed to the vets. My partner had to hold her stomach in and I don't know how he did it."

"Luckily, the vet found a tick in her coat and she had a transfusion the next day. If she had not found the tick at that stage the disease would have killed Mishka."

"The vet told us there was a one per cent chance of her getting better and we thought we had a dead dog. We were distraught and dreaded the phone call, especially as around the same time we lost another dog."

"But she managed to pull through which was a miracle. We have now bought a beautiful puppy, a husky-cross named Blue, to try and make her feel she had someone there and Blue has brought her back to life."

SURVIVOR: Lisa Hall with her husky Mishka, who is lucky to be alive after being infected by the Babesia parasite

Lion is mane attraction at Chinese celebrations

SHOPPERS were entertained by a traditional lion dance in the Harvey Centre on Saturday as part of celebrations to mark the Chinese New Year.

The performance by members of the Wing Chun Jing Wu Kung Fu Club was accompanied by the sounds of drums, cymbals and gongs.

The lion also blessed the Kung Fu oriental buffet restaurant and its kitchen.

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said: "Chinese New Year is a key celebration for us. Working with the local community is also really important so we were delighted to have had Harlow-based dancers deliver this superb performance."

Go-ahead for a neighbourhood plan 'must have public support'

VILLAGERS will get a final chance to say whether they feel there is a need for a neighbourhood plan when the issue is discussed at a meeting in North Weald on Monday.

For the past few months North Weald Bassett Parish Council – which covers North Weald, Thornwood and Hastingwood – has held a number of public events to establish how much support there is for the creation of a plan.

However, there is concern at the lack of public engagement in the process and so Monday's meeting will establish if there are enough residents willing to support the creation of a plan.

Neighbourhood plans give residents the chance to shape the development and growth of their area through a shared vision.

The council is looking for people who are willing to give up some of their time to help with the tasks and activities needed to create such a plan.

Parish council chairman Cyril Hawkins said: "There are over 7,000 residents in the parish. If they decide a neighbourhood plan is the way forward then the parish council will fully support them. However, it cannot be done without enough public support."

■ Anyone interested in getting involved with creating a plan for the area or who would like to attend Monday's meeting, which starts at 7.30pm, should email ourplan@northweald-pc.gov.uk.

Mum of girl hit by car backs safety call

Parents want action to curb speed of vehicles near school

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE mother of a girl who was injured when she was struck by a car while on her way to school is backing calls for a review of safety measures on the busy road.

Nine-year-old Charlie Tyrell suffered facial injuries in the accident near William Martin Junior School, in Tawneys Road, Harlow, in November.

Her mother, Jennifer, is one of more than 200 people who have signed a petition urging Essex County Council to take action to reduce the speed of traffic using the road.

"My daughter had to be taken to hospital in an ambulance after she was hit," said Mrs Tyrell, 36, of Primrose Field. "She suffered facial injuries and was kept off school for a couple of weeks but mentally she will be suffering for a long time."

"It was the most terrifying day of my life and I will do anything to help the school get the help needed for the road to be made safer."

Although there is a crossing patrol and road crossing near the school, parents are worried the speed of some vehicles could result in a serious accident.

The petition has been started by Mark Ingall, who walks his five-year-old daughter Harriet to school most days.

"If you talk to any parent of a child at the school they will say cars are always travelling too quickly along there," said Mr Ingall, 52, of Tye Green Village. "If cars travelled more slowly there would be less chance of an accident happening."

Along with fellow parent Keeley Maynard, he has been knocking on doors asking people to sign. So far he has obtained 217 signatures with a further 16 adding their names online.

Mr Ingall said: "There is not much signage and if anything cars have been speeding up since the new roundabout was installed at the Southern Way junction. I even saw the lollipop lady having to take avoiding action."

Mrs Tyrell added: "It's getting ridiculous as cars come flying along here because there is little to stop them as there are no signs up. I don't want to wait until something worse happens."

A school spokeswoman said: "We are extremely pleased with our parents starting a petition to try and get someone to look at the traffic and parking situation outside the school."

"The governing body has been trying to get someone to help with the problem we are facing for some time. The last email we received suggested contacting a local councillor who may then choose to take it to a highways panel for discussion."

"We feel this is a ridiculous situation and are so pleased that parent power is starting to work."

To sign the petition visit www.thepetitionsite.com/takeaction and search William Martin.

Farm launches appeal to fund living classroom

A COMMUNITY farm in Harlow has launched an appeal for donations which it will use to plant a living classroom.

The not-for-profit farm, which was set up on a former allotment site in Foldcroft, has started a CrowdFunder campaign to raise the £500 it needs for the project.

The plan is to create an outdoor classroom from willow which will be used as nature-based learning space big enough to sit 30 students.

"By taking the study of nature and science outside of the conventional classroom, we aim to increase attainment, improve participation and extend the engagement of all learners," said a spokesman.

Active

"We are already active in providing basic resources and this classroom will allow for an increase in provision of exploration and appreciation of food and wildlife for pupils and the wider community."

Farm co-ordinator Elliott Woollen said: "We have taken on a bit of a challenge to fund and get the project off the ground quite literally. This is because the latest we can plant the classroom is in mid-March."

So far the appeal has raised £200 but with a deadline of February 25 to reach the £500 target, the farm needs more help.

The farm was set up in October 2013 and volunteers commit as much time as they want, with everyone taking home a share of the produce. It also make regular donations of fresh fruit and vegetables to the Streets2Homes charity in Harlow.

Mr Woollen added: "We encourage everyone to get involved with the community farm."

It's just like Dixon of Dock Green for the 21st century

WHAT does 'community' mean to you? I thought I would look up the meaning and in one of the popular dictionaries it is defined as "a group of people living together and practicing common ownership".

It's a definition we would probably all accept but is that what actually takes place? We all like to think we live in a community but do we all live together and do we all have common ownership?

You don't have to go back too many years to when Dixon of Dock Green was policing a community where he knew everyone and everyone knew him. This fictional character isn't that far from where we are now but the difference is that policing has moved on and so has society in general.

The internet, social media and the migration of people has seen an increase in issues that would leave old George Dixon scratching his head. Dealing with the vulnerable is a priority for us and these vulnerabilities are still identified by engaging with the public and dealing with community issues.

In the days of Dixon the community would know what was going on and they all looked out for each other. We still have this in our communities but it is driven by a smaller number of dedicated people, many of whom run residents' associations.

Last week I had the pleasure of visiting the Waterhouse Moor Residents' Association. The lead, Steve Richardson, is passionate and his passion pulls people with him. Steve and his team are not unique. We have Zulqar Cheema in Berecroft and Tracy Fowler in Red Willow, plus many other unsung Harlow heroes.

During my meeting with Steve I had a 'Eureka' moment. Each association had the same issue irrespective of where it was in Harlow so how do we deal with it as a collective? How do we encourage new residents to join in? How do we gain the community courage to deal with or report issues?

In the next few weeks I will be holding a workshop for residents' associations which will concentrate on issues such as hidden harm, social media, community engagement and reporting mechanisms. We will also share best practice and get outside speakers to provide their experiences and guidance.

I want to hear from those associations who would like to take part in this event. I am also very keen to hear from areas of the community that do not have representatives but who are keen to form associations.

You can email my team on harlowneighbourhoodpolicing@essex.pnn.police.uk.

Benefit payments are set to change

Rollout of Universal Credit has now started in Harlow

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A NEW single monthly payment to replace six existing types of benefit has been introduced in Harlow.

Universal Credit replaces Jobseekers Allowance, Employment and Support Allowance, Income Support, Child Tax Credit, Working Tax Credit and Housing Benefit with a single payment.

"For us it's all quite new," said Mike King, 52, manager of the Harlow Jobcentre Plus branch in Crown Gate.

Nationwide

"The 14 Jobcentre Plus branches in Essex are among the last to adopt Universal Credit which began being rolled out nationwide in March 2015.

"Some of our staff went away for three weeks training and we're all quite excited to come back and start.

"(Nationally) it's working really well."

Universal Credit is being introduced in stages and currently will only apply to new claimants. Those already claiming benefits should carry on doing so until being instructed differently or if their circumstances change.

The system is designed to simplify the process of claiming state payments which the Government hope will reduce red tape while cutting down on benefit fraud and overpayments.

But critics argue that millions of working families will be worse off as a result of cuts to how much people can earn before claiming. In addition a new claimant will have to wait around six weeks to receive their first payment.

Mr King said: "As the weeks go on I think we will be taking more and more claims and the number of cases logged will build up over time. People will be pushed towards Universal Credit."

Latest Government figures state that in total 320,000 people have claimed under the new system while for every 100 people finding a job under Job Seekers Allowance 113 have under Universal Credit.

Mr King credits increased support and the changed role of a work coach in helping claimants find jobs more easily.

Supportive

"The big change is that it's supportive all the way through once someone makes a claim and they go into work it still supports them," he said.

"Their work coach will still support them if they have any issues.

"If they are made unemployed again their claim will remain open. There are a number of ways of getting support.

"Not all people can claim Universal Credit, but there are people who are eligible who do not get Job Seekers Allowance.

"It can be that people are receiving Universal Credit and still receiving some benefits."

In brief

Man charged after crash which injured two bikers

ROYDON: A man is due to appear in court later this month following a collision in which two motorcyclists from Harlow were injured.

A stretch of Harlow Road was closed for seven hours following the accident involving a van and two motorbikes shortly after 3.20pm on Wednesday, December 16.

A 21-year-old man from Harlow was taken to The Royal London Hospital with multiple internal injuries and a fractured leg. A 22-year-old man from Harlow suffered minor injuries.

Danny Jenkins, 20, of Homefield Road, Ware, was this week charged with drug-driving and is due to appear at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on February 23.

Mini manicures for kids

HARLOW: Youngsters can enjoy being treated like a prince or princess with a mini manicure at the Harvey Centre on Saturday in exchange for a small donation to St Clare Hospice.

A team of beauticians from Glam Princess Partys will be filing and painting nails.

Centre manager Bryan Young said: "St Clare is a charity we are sure has touched the hearts of many of our customers and as such we are overwhelmed to be able to support them in this way."

Road rage bail extended

HARLOW: Three people arrested in connection with a New Year's Eve road rage incident in which three people suffered stab wounds have had their bail extended.

A 59-year-old man from Waltham Abbey, a 30-year-old man and a 25-year-old woman, both from Harlow, were arrested on suspicion of violent conduct following the incident on the A14 near Eastwick.

Council urged to appoint a mental health champion

Motion seeks to raise awareness and end misconceptions

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW councillor has called on the authority to do more for mental health awareness by supporting a number of proposals.

Ian Beckett asked Harlow Council to sign up to a number of pledges and appoint a mental health champion.

The champion would be one of the elected members of the council and would work across the authority to promote the cause.

Other initiatives include signing the Local Authorities Mental Health Challenge, and identifying a member of staff within the council to act as lead officer for mental health.

Cllr Beckett, who has previously spoken about his own battle with depression, told Thursday's meeting: "Today is national Time to Talk day - a day when nearly all the mental health agencies, their clients,

CALL: Labour councillor Ian Beckett put forward the motion at last week's meeting supporters and activists look to get the nation talking about mental health matters and to work to end misconceptions around some of the problems.

Proposing the motion, he said: "Ultimately I hope the measures proposed in this motion will contribute to that aim. It is a comprehensive motion that seeks to do what it says on the tin."

Other more general proposals suggested include supporting positive mental health in the community including schools, neighbourhoods and workplaces, working to reduce inequalities in mental health, listening to people of all ages and backgrounds and signing up to the Time to Change pledge.

"It's a motion about mental health and as such it is as much about mental health solutions as it is mental health problems," added Cllr Beckett.

"Moreover it's an opportunity for Harlow Council to play a part promoting and developing positive mental health and wellbeing to the people of the town including our own employees.

"Rising to this challenge will benefit Harlow in many ways and I know we have people who will put in the necessary time and energy to drive those benefits home," he said.

Conservative group member Cllr Eddie Johnson, who seconded the motion, said: "One in four people are affected by a mental health problem every year but many are afraid to talk about their experiences. That is not right and it's time to break down the barriers."

The motion was passed.

Man committing sex act in public place was filmed on mobile phone

A MAN who was filmed on a mobile phone committing a sex act in the communal hall of a block of flats has been jailed.

Darren Bangs, 40, of Hookfield, Harlow, pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Magistrates Court to an offence of outraging public decency.

Angela Hughes, prosecuting, told the court another resident in the block saw Bangs masturbating while sitting on the floor outside his flat at 6pm on February 1.

"It was quite clear, he could be seen by anyone," she said. "He [the witness] couldn't believe what he was seeing. He recorded a 25-second video on his phone to show police."

Bangs was arrested and admitted what he had done but said it was not his intention to cause distress to anyone.

The court heard that a few weeks earlier Bangs had received a three-year community order, including a condition that he attended a sex offenders programme, for an offence of exposing himself.

Joanne Pumfrey, representing Bangs, said in mitigation the defendant had an issue with alcohol which was the cause of many of his offences.

Bangs was jailed for 16 weeks for the offence and re-sentenced for the earlier incident for which he received a further 16 weeks in prison. The two sentences will run consecutively.

The magistrates told him that children could have been present at 6pm, he was under the influence of alcohol and there was a high risk of him re-offending.

RANGERS CLUB

Tim's cosmic classroom

THOUSANDS of lucky schoolchildren enjoyed a science lesson which was literally out of this world. Their teacher was Tim Peake, the British astronaut who is currently aboard the International Space Station more than 250 miles above the surface of planet Earth.

The 20-minute satellite link-up was streamed to 300 children at the World Museum in Liverpool and then relayed to hundreds of schools across the country.

Major Peake showed how the absence of gravity in space allowed him to spin head over heel. He also took part in a game of 'follow the leader' and demonstrated how he plays ping-pong with a glob of water.

He then took part in a question-and-answer session.

When he was asked what he could see out of the windows, he replied: "I have got a window right behind me, let me go take a look." A few seconds later he told them: "At the moment we are in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean coming up to the coast of Africa with the beautiful colours of the Sahara Desert."

Another pupil asked him if the space station was ever hit by meteors. "We do get hit by small particles every day and they have even caused some damage," he said. "On space walks we have to be careful where we put our hands." The aim of the exercise was to teach children about space.

Signalling a success

ALL are invited aboard a large scale production of The Railway Children steaming into Harlow Playhouse this half term.

Adapted from the E Nesbit classic, the play also takes inspiration from the 1970 film but moves things forward from the original 1905 setting.

"It is totally different to the original, but also very true to the story," said director Michael Phillips who founded Global Productions who are performing the play.

"It's the same version of the play as the Mike Kenny adaption currently being performed at Kings Cross Theatre in London.

"I have bought the DVD and it is re-jigging some memories but this version sees the three main children, Peter, Roberta and Phyllis as adults looking back, which allows the play to be entirely set in the station."

In Nesbit's original, the three leads are forced to move to Oakwood in Yorkshire with their mother after their father strangely disappears.

Adapting to a new setting, the trio develop a fascination for the local railway and faithfully wave to passengers every day while later their vigilance and courage prevents a train accident.

The plot thickens as they make friends and begin to uncover the mystery of their missing father.

Global's version does not stray from this story, but instead looks at it from a different perspective and tells the story through the eyes of an older Peter, Roberta and Phyllis looking back.

"It is a challenge to the actors as they have to transform from being the adults to being the children," said Michael.

"I have known the main three actors for years and they have been involved in my productions before.

"There are children involved who come from youth theatre and several are part of Waltham Forest Youth Theatre.

"There are several professional actors involved and a lot of amateur actors too. No one is getting paid, so the professional guys are doing it because they love performing and to keep themselves sharp.

"I don't like the audition process and I prefer to go and watch people in another play and then, if they are right for a part, approach them afterwards and ask if they would like to be involved.

"I keep it to a professional standard."

What has always held The Railway Children back from the stage is the problem of incorporating a railway very central to the plot.

But after Mike Kenny's version met rave reviews upon release in London, Michael has figured out a way to bring a very visual story onto a different platform. But it hasn't been easy.

"The audience has to use their imagination," he added.

"For some of the scenes as it's all set in a simple folding platform to represent the house and we have got another installation to represent Oakwood station.

"I don't want to give too much away, but we've built a full-size steam train and when it moves across the stage, it will be something special.

"The set is really big and it would be impossible to transport it, so this is just a one-off for us and eight or nine months' worth of rehearsals will come down to five performances.

"There are a lot of people backstage at the moment working on the set and until it's ready we cannot rehearse on stage. There are some things we cannot do until then. We just have to imagine all the bits and pieces until we get to the theatre and see if for ourselves for the first time."

Harlow Playhouse is the obvious setting for the play and is something of a home venue for Michael, who has directed plays there many times.

"Global Productions is my own company," he added. "We are based in Harlow and have performed many times in the Playhouse over the years. Some of the actors live in Harlow.

"It is a large cast of 18 adults and 11 children. It creates a lot to see on stage and for an audience it can be a lot to take in."

"This has been one of our most technically-demanding shows and it's wonderful to see it all coming together to conjure up the sights and sounds of Edwardian England."

■ Global Productions will perform The Railway Children at Harlow Playhouse five times between Friday, February 19 and Sunday, February 21. Tickets cost between £9.50 and £12.50 from www.playhouseharlow.com.

Chaotic hilarity proves a 'theatrical delight'

A GOOD way to judge the quality of a play is to stand in the foyer at the interval and the end of the performance and to observe the audience members as they exit the auditorium.

There was a palpable buzz of animated conversation and laughter from an audience that had clearly enjoyed the evening's performance of Laying the Ghost by Simon Williams.

The play performed by Moot House Players, set in a home for retired actors, revolves around the labyrinthine love life of theatrical knight Sir Leo Buchanan who has come to wish his ex wife, Margot, a happy 70th birthday. However, not only does his present wife turn up, but also his current girlfriend, Sadie Croft.

Add to the mix a dotty resident, Freda Deacon, who is mildly alcoholic and speaks to ghosts and you have a perfect recipe for catastrophe.

The first half culminated with an unwanted Kissagram actor, dressed as Superman, bursting in and attempting to deliver a "big wet kiss"! Needless to say, this left the audience in helpless stitches of laughter:

HOME SWEET HOME: The cast of Laying the Ghost pictured in rehearsals

This was director Anne Farr's first production and she managed the quick-fire plot deftly, allowing the cast to work very much as an ensemble.

Henrietta Branwell's Freda Deacon, awash with brandy, arguing with ghosts and struggling with a pornographic jigsaw puzzle, provided constant entertainment.

Joan Lanario's Margot Buchanan was a beautifully balanced performance, managing to be dotty at one moment and warmly touching at another.

Michael Rees, as Sir Leo Buchanan, portrayed the confusion and mild desperation of a man snared by his own vanity. Melissa Jones, as the not-quite-so-innocent Sadie Croft, was excellent – especially when her role as Sir Leo's mistress is discovered by Lady Buchanan, played to icy perfection by Rosalind Barron.

Bridget McAlpine, as the harassed manager of the home, neatly portrayed the frustration of a woman trying desperately to stay calm and rational as she dealt with arguments, death and arson! Mention must also be made of Dan Powell's outrageous cameo portrayal of the hapless Superman, costume resplendent with rippling plastic muscles, outraged at the rejection of his kissing skills.

The technical crew, so often overlooked, are to be congratulated for producing a simple set that put the focus on the actors and for efficient and effective lighting and sound.

All in all, this was a very enjoyable evening – a little box of theatrical delight.

Criticisms? It would have been nice if Superman could have flown in! But we can't have everything, can we?

STRICTLY Come Dancing star Pasha Kovalev will be waltzing his way to Herts and Essex on his brand new tour this spring.

The 36-year-old rose to fame on the hit BBC show, winning the competition in 2014 with his celebrity partner Caroline Flack.

And now Pasha is back – with his professional partner Anya Garnis – on his fifth nationwide tour. It's All About You, coming to The Gordon Craig Theatre, Stevenage, in April, and The Arena, St Albans, and The Playhouse, Harlow, in May.

His previous shows have received rave reviews, and Pasha is promising an even bigger, more energetic event this time around.

"People are very receptive to the dancing because they are very open to this type of entertainment," said Pasha, who has appeared in five series of Strictly.

"I like it that people are enjoying themselves when they are watching my shows and I want people to walk out with a big smile afterwards.

"It seems to happen every time when I come to Hertfordshire and Essex.

"It is a brand new show with a different cast. It is much bigger,

Pasha shows his passion for dance better, with new music and new costumes, but it is still glittery and fun, so people who enjoy Strictly will certainly enjoy it.

"This time around I am bringing a singer, who will add another layer to the evening, with stories expressed with every single dance.

"I like to add a little bit of audience participation and to get them involved and make it an event for the entire family."

When Strictly burst on to our screens in 2004, it began to inspire a new generation to take up the activity.

And with his family-orientated show, Pasha is certainly starting to see a fresh interest in dancing from children.

"Younger viewers are really starting to come through because Strictly Come Dancing has been running for 12 years now," he added.

"There is a whole generation that have grown up on Strictly and a lot of kids want to start dancing.

"They come to the show and I get a chance to interact with them and their parents afterwards.

"I like to ask what their favourite dance is and they are very receptive to that.

"Every dance brings a little different side to it and brings up different emotions.

"When I was competing I was more into the Latin dances, something fast and energetic.

"But I really enjoy the ballroom dances, because nothing can bring a romantic story like a waltz. At the same time, if you want drama then you turn to the paso doble, so you have to mix and match. "Each dance brings different emotions and they are the pieces that make the puzzle."

The tour comes to The Gordon Craig Theatre, Stevenage, on April 15-16; The Arena, St Albans, on May 19 and The Playhouse, Harlow, on May 29.

Beat boredom with some fab activities for half-term fun

HALF term is nearly here, although probably not near enough for youngsters looking forward to a break. Despite the lack of daylight hours and colder weather there are still plenty of activities to get excited about in Harlow's area for the week off.

Here are some of the top suggestions for children to best enjoy a full and productive half term in and around Essex.

Boredom can be banished at Hobbycraft Harlow with the Edinburgh Way shop offering creative projects and activities. These activities run from Monday to Friday and cost £5 for anyone to take part in.

Sporty youngsters can appreciate the array of activities held in Epping. The multi-sports days, organised by Epping Forest District Council, include football, tennis, netball and team games such as capture the flag. The multi-sports days run from 9.15am to 3pm on Tuesday, and Thursday February 18. For more information call 01992 564226. Entry cost £15 for the day.

Additionally, Harlow Leisurezone are holding a week of fun and games for budding athletes and those who just fancy a kick around. Providing courses in tennis, trampolining, football and karate there is something for everyone at the Second Avenue sports centre. For more information call (01279) 621500. Prices start from £5.

Football fanatics can learn to play the Gunners way with the Arsenal Soccer School which offers training and matches for 5-11 year olds. You do not have to be a fan of the reds to enjoy the action which will run from Wednesday to Friday. The full-day sessions cost £60 for three days. To book a place call 01442 938 475.

Fancy an enjoyable outdoors adventure in the scenic woods of High Beach, Loughton? Fun activities, wide games, nature trails and team work are all on offer for three exciting days. The Epping Forest District Council initiative runs on Wednesday and Friday. For more information call 01992 564 226. Entry costs £2.50.

Harlow Bowl is helping children stay on target for a fun week by opening two hours earlier than usual from 10am. Juniors can play from £4.99 and for more information call (01279) 418841.

Further afield Hadleigh Park, near Benfleet, has a host of exciting opportunities for families this February, including a lantern walk, family bike ride and kite making activity. Some events are free. For more information visit www.hadleigh-park.co.uk.

FILMGUIDE

He's far from your average superhero

After a decade of groundwork, Ryan Reynolds has finally made Deadpool, a movie about a Marvel character who's more anti-hero than superhero. Susan Griffin catches up with the star to find why it's fresh and foul in equal measure

Marvel Comics legend Stan Lee believes Ryan Reynolds was born to play the role of super (anti)hero Deadpool, an obnoxious, motormouth with little regard for who he upsets – and the actor couldn't be happier.

"I don't think it's a back-handed compliment, it sounds like a compliment," says the 39-year-old, grinning. "I love Deadpool. I mean yes, he's a little vulgar and he's got some issues, but don't we all?"

The character made an appearance in 2009's somewhat disappointing X-Men Origins: Wolverine, alongside Hugh Jackman's hirsute superhero, and Reynolds has been enjoying poking fun at his Australian co-star on and off screen, including the fact they're both recipients of People's Sexiest Man Alive accolade.

"Hugh's a true legend, but the movie, that was a career low for me," he's said.

This movie, however, is undeniably Reynolds' passion project and the culmination of 11 years of blood, sweat and tears.

"It's been a long, long haul," admits the Canadian star, who started his career in television series Fifteen back in 1991, making his film breakthrough in 2002 comedy Van Wilder: Party Liaison.

"I think they were forced to make the movie, in a weird way,

FILM FOR THE FANS: Ryan Reynolds at a fan screening of Deadpool at the Soho Hotel

by the fans. So the fans own this film. They overwhelmed the studio with requests to see a Deadpool movie, so the studio just went, 'Go, make your Deadpool movie. We will see you when you're done. We'll leave you alone, just go make it,' he explains. "It was great to have carte blanche to make the movie we wanted."

It tells the story of Wade Wilson, a former Special Forces operative-turned-mercenary (hence the 'merc with a mouth' tag), who, after being subjected to a rogue experiment that leaves him with accelerated healing powers, adopts the alter-ego Deadpool.

Some of the film's funniest lines crop up when he and his mate Weasel (Silicon Valley's T.J. Miller) brainstorm what his moniker might be with no-holds-barred references to the head-to-toe scar tissue he's been left with.

Determined to reunite with the equally ballsy Vanessa, the love of his life, portrayed by Morena Baccarin, he first goes in search of the man responsible for nearly destroying him, the sadistic Ajax, played by rising British star Ed Skrein.

"In the comic book world, Deadpool is a man of our time, with the ability to spout just the right thing, in terms of a pop culture reference, at the worst possible moment," notes Reynolds. "That makes him interesting to me, and also makes him sort of limitless."

And from the violence to the swearing and the sex scenes, there's no holding back.

"I think the mission was to hit the gas and go as fast as we could until someone made us stop," admits Reynolds, laughing.

While it's more X-rated than X-Men audiences are used to, it's still part of that franchise, and some people in the industry are complaining that the sheer might of superhero movies is ruining the cinematic landscape.

"The franchise movies don't leave a lot of room for other

DRAMA: (15) Starring Brie Larson, Jacob Tremblay
Giving two of the best performances of the last five years, Brie Larson and Jacob Tremblay take the lead in this gripping drama. The film focuses on the relationship between a mother and son while faced with captivity. With a unique perception on the outside world, mere conversation between the two is both charming and touching. Although the second half does have issues with pacing, in the hands of director Lenny Abrahamson, the story is truly given the time it deserves.

Creed

ACTION: (15) Starring Michael B Jordan, Sylvester Stallone
Director Ryan Coogler has managed to take the much loved Rocky franchise back to basics and create one of the better films in the ongoing saga. Following Adonis Creed (son of Apollo), the story takes us back to the streets of Philadelphia as he tries to find his own path in a world dominated by his legendary father. Driven by nostalgia but standing on its own merits, Creed is a perfect example of a sports movie done right. An honest story paired with some knockout performances definitely make it one of the strongest films from the start of the year.

films," concedes Reynolds, who's also starred in the horror Blade: Trinity, romcom The Proposal and action-thriller Safe House, as well as smaller movies like Buried, Adventureland and The Voices.

"I don't deal with the distribution of films and how difficult that is. I know it's a minefield and very challenging, but I still get to do lots of small movies – they exist and we get to make them. I just don't think they're going to be in the same venues as they always have."

He believes "television is actually the new venue" for smaller, independent movies.

"A lot of these companies, Amazon and Netflix, are snatching up feature films, it's actually kind of amazing and, I think, smart."

As co-producer on Deadpool as well, he worked closely with director Tim Miller and screenwriters Rhett Reese and Paul Wernick, "staying as true to the character as possible".

T We really ran with the idea of Deadpool being aware he's a comic book anti-hero. It gave us the freedom to tell this story in a totally unorthodox way

"We really ran with the idea of Deadpool being aware he's a comic book anti-hero. It gave us the freedom to tell this story in a totally unorthodox way. We occupy a space that no other comic book movie has – or can."

It's why Deadpool can get away with constantly breaking the fourth wall, talking directly to the audience, sometimes derisively, but despite the sardonic wit and twisted sense of humour, he's so engaging that you can't help but be drawn in.

"Deadpool has this bright, optimistic outlook on life, even though his life is pretty sh*tty," explains Reynolds. "I mean, he's become horribly disfigured from the experiments that gave him his powers and he's more than a little insane."

Last year, the actor lost his father, who'd been battling Parkinson's disease for 20 years, and recently opened up about finding comfort in his work, saying he understands the idea of 'filtering pain through a prism of comedy' – something he's done with Deadpool.

He named his 14-month old daughter, with wife Blake Lively, James, in honour of his dad. And though he says nothing can prepare you for fatherhood, he can offer up these words of advice for new parents: "Buckle up! Now the real work begins."

Deadpool is released in cinemas on Wednesday, February 10

Valentine feast

IF nothing else, Valentine's Day is a good excuse for treating you and your loved one to a delicious meal. So in preparation for the big day on Sunday, here are our recipes for a delicious romantic meal.

Griddled Salmon and Broccoli, Shallot and Chilli Stir Fry

Very tasty and easy to prepare, the sweetness of the shallots complimenting the hot and crunchy broccoli, perfect for an easy but tasty Valentine's main course.

Preparation time: 10 minutes

Cooking time: 15 minutes

Ingredients

4 salmon fillets
 300g long stemmed broccoli
 12 shallots, peeled and quartered
 1 large red chilli, finely chopped
 50g almonds, toasted

Method

Brush the salmon steaks with a little oil, griddle or pan fry for approximately 5-7 minutes each side until cooked through, keep warm.

Steam the broccoli for 2 minutes, drain well. Heat the clean griddle pan, toss the shallots in a little oil and cook, turning regularly until softened and beginning to brown at the edges.

Add the chilli to a tablespoon of olive oil and toss into the tenderstem, add to the pan and cook with the shallots until just beginning to show griddle marks, turning at regular intervals. Sprinkle in the toasted almonds.

Divide the stir fry between 4 plates and top with a piece of salmon.

Cook's tip: Serve with steamed baby new potatoes and a good squeeze of lemon.

Strawberry Rose Petal and Pistachio Pavlova

Lashings of cream flavoured with a dash of rose water, loaded onto a huge sticky meringue round, filled with fresh halved strawberries, topped with crushed pistachios and fragrant rose petals – it's a reminder of summer in February.

SERVES 8

Preparation time: 25 minutes

Cooking time: 1 hour, plus cooling

Ingredients

6 large egg whites
 250g caster sugar
 1 tsp rose water extract
 1 tsp white wine vinegar
 1 tsp corn flour
 100g crushed pistachios
 475ml double cream
 1 tbsp icing sugar
 450g strawberries cut in half (keep 3-4 whole strawberries aside to garnish)
 Handful of pale pink rose petals

Method

Line a baking sheet and pre heat the oven to 180c.

Whisk the egg whites in a large bowl until stiff peaks form, then slowly add the sugar, rose water, vinegar, corn flour and whisk again until the mix becomes very thick and shiny.

Gently fold in half of the pistachios then carefully spoon the mixture onto the lined baking sheet, forming a circle and working the mixture outwards to form an edge and leaving a slight dip in the centre.

Drop the oven temperature to 150c and bake for 1 hour, then turn off the oven, leaving the meringue in there to cool. If you have time, make the meringue the night before, and leave it in the cooling oven overnight. The parchment should pull away easily now and you can place the meringue on a plate.

Whip the cream adding in the icing sugar and spread generously over the cooled meringue. Scatter the strawberries over the top, arrange the whole strawberries in the centre, sprinkle with the rest of the pistachios and finally scatter with the rose petals and serve.

Our job is all about listening

I just wanted to let you know how fantastic both Robert Jones and Charlie Doré were throughout both my Sale and property search. Please thank them for dealing with the sale of my property so efficiently, without them running the show, I am very doubtful as to whether I would have had a successful conclusion.

They acted professionally and were punctual, honest, friendly and proactive, having a clear understanding as to what I was looking for. I dealt with a number of agents during my search, but they were the best in keeping me up to date, in being flexible for arranging viewings, and offered fair impartial advice to me without making me feel pressured to make an offer.

10 SECOND REVIEW:

The Toyota Auris has evolved into something wholly desirable. The problem is, UK buyers haven't twigged just yet.

This revised version might well help the penny drop, with cleaner styling inside and out, more efficient engines and the usual British-built Toyota integrity.

TESTED Toyota Auris

The Toyota Auris family hatchback keeps improving in a bid to attract your attention. Could this be Britain's most unfairly overlooked car? Andy Enright reports.

What do Toyota have to do to get you interested in buying an Auris? Make it better to drive? They did that in 2012, at the same time making it better looking, better value for money, better built and more efficient.

That ought to have been enough to propel Toyota's Focus rival from also-ran to there or thereabouts and, objectively speaking, the Auris was an impressive all-rounder.

Thing is, nobody here really took it that seriously, despite it being built right here in Britain at Toyota's award-winning Burnaston facility.

Undeterred, Toyota has set about improving the Auris still further, revealing a revised line-up that aims to ensure that slowly but surely, this car will get its due. With a broader range, sharper styling and fresh engines being introduced, that day could be nearer than you think.

With the original version of this second generation model, Toyota already offered a wide selection of engines, including diesel, petrol and hybrid options, but things are getting a bit more interesting again with the introduction of a 1.2-litre turbo petrol unit and a 1.6-litre turbo diesel.

The 1.33-litre and 1.6-litre petrol powerplants continue, as does the 1.4-litre D4-D turbo diesel, the latter being heavily revised to make it the cleanest diesel engine in the 90PS class. Revised cylinders, fuel injection, catalyst and cylinder head cover all feature, with the peak 205Nm torque figure now being reached at just 1,400rpm, where before it was 1,800rpm.

The sprint to 62mph takes 12.5 seconds en route to 112mph. That's not bad for an entry-level diesel.

The freshly-developed 1.2T direct injection turbocharged unit develops 115PS, while the 1.6 turbodiesel is good for 111PS.

Go for that 1.2T variant – or the older 1.6 Valvematic model – and you get the option of Toyota's 'multidrive S' CVT auto transmission. This package features various modes – fully automatic, seamless shifting or a sequential, stepped seven-speed Sport setting controlled by the gear lever or shift paddles mounted on the steering column.

The Auris' suspension has been revised, with a choice of two rear ends. For the slightly faster models, there's a double wishbone system (offered on the 1.2T and 1.6 Valvematic petrol variants, plus the 1.6 D-4D diesel and the 1.8 Hybrid).

Less powerful versions though, get a simpler torsion bar set-up (used on the 1.3 VVT-i petrol variant and the feeble 1.4 D-4D diesel). Toyota has also reduced noise levels in the cabin and re-tuned the electric power steering to further build steering weight as vehicle speed rises, giving better feedback between 35 and 50mph.

Toyota really gave the Auris a bit of attitude with the Mk2 car that appeared in 2012 and this improved version builds on that by featuring the lower and broader frontal treatment now common to many of the company's latest products.

There's a splash more chrome on the grille, plus LED headlamp clusters which include LED daytime running lights. In profile the revised front and rear styling generates longer overhangs, while the rear end features a sleeker lower bumper assembly and LED rear lights.

The cabin benefits from better quality materials and a lower profile dashboard, with cleaner-looking dials and a more consistent use of grains, illumination and typefaces across the fascia.

There's a twin-clock binnacle with a 4.2-inch colour TFT multi-information screen. Many details, such as the air vents, doorhandles and gear lever surround, have been redesigned to give a crisper, high-quality appearance. There's also a Touring Sports estate version on offer if you need a bit more hauling space.

In Europe, the Hybrid variant accounts for fully 50 per cent of all Auris sales, whereas in the UK, that version's always been a bit-part player. Given the huge success of Toyota's more familiar Prius hybrid, perhaps things will change now.

WANTED

Try opera for free!

Have you ever wanted to watch an opera?

Experience your first operatic production, live and free of charge, live in your local cinema for the chance to win two tickets to the Royal Opera House in Coven Garden, London!

King's College London and the Royal Opera House have joined forces to investigate what opera newcomers make of new productions of Boris Godunov & Lucia di Lammermoor, broadcast in real time straight from the stage to the silver screen. This is a unique opportunity to watch the Royal Opera's world-class artists bring these masterpieces to life.

Boris Godunov, a historical epic that charts the decline of Russia's imperial glory, is widely considered the greatest Russian opera: a work of technical innovation and musical brilliance. Meanwhile, Gaetano Donizetti's smouldering tragedy Lucia di Lammermoor tells the story of an innocent woman caught in the grip of a vicious family feud. The renowned piece is given a feminist twist by director Katie Mitchell (Written on Skin).

To be eligible for this research project, you must be based in the Hertfordshire area, and have never seen an opera before - ever. By completing a short survey after the show, you will be entered into a prize draw for two free tickets to an upcoming show at the Royal Opera House!

If you would like to participate, please email josephahattard02@hotmail.co.uk or call the number below expressing your interest.

Promotion in the bag thanks to late winner

Only mathematical miracle can deny table-toppers

East Men's Hockey League Division Six South East
Harlow 2
Brentwood IV 0

HARLOW effectively sealed promotion with a late goal which gave them a 2-1 victory over third-placed Brentwood fourths.

Ben Light's side are now 15 points clear of their rivals and have six games left, and Brentwood can only tie with Harlow now even if they win all their remaining games and the Leventhorpe-based team lose all theirs.

They are eight points clear of second-placed Clacton so now have one hand on the title.

They now need a point away to bottom club Basildon to secure promotion and have a healthy goal difference, but three could go up so they are surely promoted.

Harlow started on the front foot and earned a couple of penalty corners, which hit the target but the Brentwood keeper was in fine form keeping them at bay.

Agonisingly

The visitors slowly came into the game and before half-time almost took a shock lead as a back post deflection went agonisingly wide.

After the break, Harlow upped the tempo.

Within five minutes of the restart the hosts earned a penalty corner. This time Andy Boughtwood's mazy solo run between defenders gave him enough time and space to find a bottom corner.

Brentwood, determined and defiant, rose to the challenge and peppered the Harlow area with their full arsenal, only to be kept at bay by stand-in captain Kim Harvey and the rest of the defence sweeping up all attempts. Harlow's midfield regained a foothold and began to press back, forcing Brentwood back into their own territory.

It was this pressure that proved to be Harlow's downfall as a hopeful crash ball found the opposite centre forward, and with time to turn he rifled a shot into a bottom corner.

At 1-1 with ten minutes to go it was now or never for Harlow, and as the clock wound down it was a spark of magic that proved the difference.

Benn Hagger collected the ball from Rhys Mace near the 23m line and drove through the heart of the Brentwood defence, breaking through tackles before flicking it into a bottom corner and sealing a dramatic victory.

Harlow 2
Old Loughtonians 1

LAURA HAY produced a string of fantastic saves as Harlow Ladies triumphed in their six-pointer against second-from-bottom Old Loughtonians seconds.

Kelly Ball and Petra Trimble, on the right, pushed forward and gave the hosts early momentum.

Debutant Liz Green was set up for chances by Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith, player of the match Bethan Spencer and right-back Lara Horrax.

The deadlock was broken when Charlotte Byers finished from close range.

Old Loughts consistently outfoxed the left side of the Harlow defence.

The majority of their play went that direction and they were rewarded with a swift equaliser.

Harlow struck back before half-time when Esterhuysen-Smith finished off a good move down the left sparked by Rowena Ricketts.

Both teams had chances to win but Hay's excellent form between the sticks sealed the points.

Langley the county cream in final

Basketball

HARD work and determination paid off as Church Langley Primary School sealed the title of Essex County Basketball Champions for 2016.

The winter games tournament hosted by Active Essex was played at Mark Hall Academy Sportscentre.

The team had moved on to the Essex final after winning the Harlow district basketball competition.

Deputy headteacher David Stacey explained: "The event was a long and difficult one for the ten players of Church Langley's A team; the rules encouraged more physical play, with persistent fouling, blocking and contact, an alien feature to our children.

"However, after a very steep learning curve in the first game, and with some encouragement from coach Gill Pardoe, the Harlow team battled their way through various group stages and the Super Eight finals, to set up a final against last year's finalists Allen Court."

Church Langley dominated the final, winning 13-0 and taking the county trophy.

Mr Stacey added: "We are all incredibly proud of them."

"In addition to the personal accolade for the school and the children involved, this is a great achievement for all the primary schools in Harlow who continue to make the local events such a high standard that our winning teams are able to compete on an even footing at county level."

The support of head teacher Stacey Ward enables Mr Stacey to organise all of these sporting events as School Games Organiser for Harlow, in addition to his full time teaching role at the Church Langley Way primary.

The Church Langley team was made up of: Lydia House, Eidan Gibbs, Gabriel Wood, Jamal Obeng, Archie Witham, Max Harknett, Ruby Still, Joyce Litizu, Daryn Gerty and Niamh Hanrahan.

Power of ten for super Hawks

Ryman North
Heybridge Swifts 1
Harlow Tn 2

STRIKER Leon Antoine repaid boss Danny Chapman's faith with a crucial equaliser against his old side which paved the way to the Hawks recording their tenth successive win in Ryman North.

The 2-1 victory at bogey side Heybridge Swifts, combined with defeats for AFC Hornchurch and Thurrock, enabled Harlow Town to climb to second in the table.

Antoine was brought back into the starting line-up for the first time in nearly three months.

He later tweeted: "Such a good feeling to get back playing @ HarlowTownFC 1st start in 2 & a half months & a goal.. Feel so blessed! #letsGetIt"

But it was the hosts who took a shock lead on six minutes.

From a corner, a low shot from George Cole just inside the box beat Hawks keeper David Hughes.

However, Antoine equalised for the visitors on 35 minutes.

Joe Benjamin's brilliant run down from left saw him produce a pinpoint cross and Antoine turned and rifled in.

It was Benjamin's fourth assist in four matches for the rejuvenated former Northampton Town winger.

The winner came from the spot on 76 minutes and Benjamin was again the architect.

The winger, a different player in the last month, stormed into the box and unleashed a shot which was handled by Swifts' on-loan Bishop's Stortford centre-half Jack Fowler.

Alex Read tucked home the penalty for Harlow.

It was Read's 23rd goal already this season.

But more importantly it was Harlow's tenth win, a run that beat their brilliant spell last season when they won nine on the trot.

It must be something about the business end of the season that inspires Harlow, as their run last season came between February and April.

How Chapman will hope the run can stretch up to April again this time around.

Harlow are ten points behind leaders AFC Sudbury with two matches in hand.

Hopefully that injury-time winner they conceded to Sudbury at The Harlow Arena – in a match they dominated in the first half – will not come back to haunt them.

Harlow are next in action at home to Thurrock on Saturday in Ryman North.

Judo players a Brit of alright

BURNT Mill students Thomas Rees and Emma Nunn performed superbly at two top judo tournaments.

Emma won gold in the Year 6 and 7 U32kg weight at the Northern Home County Area British Schools Qualifier in Harlow.

Thomas took gold at the same competition in the Years 10 to 13 U66kg weight.

Both players, members of the Bishop's Stortford Judokwai, now progress to the 2016 British Schools Championships.

Thomas also took bronze in the Southern Area British Schools in Gillingham, Kent.

Emma gained silver in her category at this event.

She also took silver in the U28kg weight at the Midland Area Open in Walsall.

Harlow Judo Club brothers Thomas and Owen Lambert also competed in this event.

Thomas, 14, having moved up to the Cadets category, found it a tough group and missed out on a medal.

Ten-year-old sibling Owen competed in the age band category much later in the afternoon and came away with a bronze medal competing against higher graded players.

Harlow Judo Club coach Mick Sullivan said: "There is still much to work on with Thomas in his new category but valuable experience was gained by them both at this level of competition."

Title hopefuls

HARLOW Hawks moved within Essex Basketball League Division Two title contention with an 81-53 win at Brentwood Bears.

The visitors were 11 points up after five minutes, leading 16-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Lee Morris bagged four three-pointers, three back-to-back, to keep a double digit lead over the Bears in a high-scoring second quarter.

Heading into the third quarter, Harlow were 40-29 ahead.

Russ Allan and Rimantas Norkelionas combined for 13 points as Hawks led 55-37 heading into the final quarter.

Morris and Shab Niaz put the game beyond Bears with seven three-pointers between them in the fourth quarter as Harlow wrapped up a big win.

Harlow swimmers move up UK ranks with county joy

Swimming

SWIMMERS from Harlow Penguins produced another string of outstanding performances in the second round of the Essex County Championships.

Stratford's Olympic pool was the destination for 70 Penguins.

The club's youngest swimmers on the day were the 9/10 years boys' squad of Max Arnold, Ben Templeton-Knight, Harry Pasquariello and William White.

In the morning session they produced some outstanding splits to come third in the 4x50m free-style relay, however later in the day they surpassed all expectations with an amazing victory in the 4x50m medley relay.

"To stand on the top tier of the podium in the Olympic pool is a massive achievement for the boys and is an outstanding start for their swimming and provides an excellent base on which to build from," said proud head coach Martin Stringer.

Versatility

Carys Brealey confirmed her position as the fastest 12-year-old sprint freestyler in the UK, her time of 29.00sec in the 50m free-style pushed her back to the top of the UK rankings in her age group and gave her a second county title in the championships to date.

Over the weekend, Carys showed her versatility, claiming second in the 50m butterfly (32.20), third in the 50m backstroke (34.46) and fourth in the 50m breaststroke (40.26).

Following on from his success on the first weekend of the champs, Alessandro Rioda just missed out on adding to his collection of titles but came away with three silver medals in the 12 years' 50m butterfly (31.69), 50m backstroke (33.97) and 50m freestyle (29.43).

Callum Wright is developing into a swimmer to be reckoned

TOP TEAM: The Harlow Penguins' 9/10 years boys' squad of Max Arnold, Ben Templeton-Knight, Harry Pasquariello and William White won the 4x50m medley relay race with, having made finals in the 14 years' 50m freestyle (28.83) and 50m butterfly (33.19).

He missed out on the gold medal by five-hundredths of a second in the 50m breaststroke where his time of 35.03 moves him into the top 25 in the UK for his age.

For Penguins, the breaststroke final proved highly successful, with Silvester Havrillay claiming bronze in 36.10 and Jack Mansfield was fourth (36.41).

In the boys' breaststroke races, both 13-year-old Ewan Bullock (36.61) and 15-year-old Harvey Bannister (34.07) won bronze medals in their 50m events.

Ewan's time pushed him up to 12th in the UK age group rankings.

Caitlin Mascall and Meg Wickham shone in the 16 years' 50m breaststroke, their identical time of 36.71 tied for third.

In the 15 years' 50m freestyle, Celeste Andrew's time of 29.14 secured bronze.

Previously Celeste had finished fourth in the 50m backstroke (33.62) and 50m butterfly (30.82).

Senior swimmer Karl Batorski gained two silver medals. These came in the 50m butterfly (25.67) and 50m breaststroke (29.76), while he gained a bronze in the 50m freestyle (24.26) and fourth in the 50m backstroke (28.79).

Stringer added: "Whilst it is great that Penguins' youngsters are achieving outstanding results, it is inspiring for them to have Karl Batorski swimming with them.

"Currently he is in heavy training as part of his preparation for the Olympic Trials in April.

"Medallists aside, Penguins also had a number of swimmers who achieved county finals for the first time and hopefully these successes will inspire the likes of Alastair Stewart, Ben Stringer, Tyler Jackson, Emily Hills and Ellie Cronin to achieve even greater success."

HTFC can break 1978 win streak

Ryman North
Harlow Town 4
Wroxham 0

AS the in-form Hawks look to shatter a club record which has stood for nearly 38 years, there is a wonderful symmetry about the stunning run.

January Ryman North Manager of the Month Danny Chapman's Harlow Town can claim their 12th successive victory if they beat fellow promotion-chasers Thurrock at The Harlow Arena this Saturday.

A look at the record books tells you that it was the Berger Isthmian League Division One title-winning Harlow team of the 1978-79 season that last achieved 11 wins on the trot.

That was a feat the Hawks equalled when they defeated Wroxham 4-0 at home on Tuesday evening.

The championship-winning side, which also won the Essex Senior Cup that year, went on an astonishing run from August to November in 1978. Their run ended when they lost 2-1 away to Wokingham Town.

Of course Star Wars fans will tell you that 1978 was the year when the likes of Darth Vader and Han Solo were on the lips of everyone, even if the film was actually released right at the very end of 1977.

And with cinema-goers in their millions across the globe enjoying the new Star Wars film, The Force Awakens, Hawks assistant boss Spencer Knight knows the force is strong with their promotion contenders.

"Records are great and obviously we are pleased to win 11 on the bounce but nothing changes for us. We want 12 or 13. But the ultimate aim is to get promotion," Knight said.

Tough

Chapman himself knows that beating Thurrock and breaking the record is not the be-all and end-all but hopes the fans will turn out in force after a poor crowd of 136 against Wroxham.

Back in the 1978-79 season, Hawks won the title with 100 points. "Hopefully that's a good omen," said Chapman.

On his manager of the month award he added: "It's nice to be recognised. But it's not all down to me. Spencer [Knight] has played a big part and the players have played the biggest part."

The hosts opened the scoring after only five minutes against Wroxham when Junior Dadson fired across goal into the far corner.

The Hawks doubled the lead when Piers Wixon played a perfectly-timed ball in behind the defence for Alex Read to collect.

He fed Dadson who tapped home for his second of the game and 26th of the season.

Just past the hour Harlow made it 3-0 when Craig Pope's long ball found Read and he chipped the keeper superbly.

Ten minutes later the scoring was complete. Another blistering run down the right by Dadson ended with Wroxham's Cain Eagleton sliding in and sending the ball past his own keeper.

Knight added: "We don't expect to win every game but we expect to put on a good performance. We came out and bossed the second half."

Dadson and Read now have 50 goals between them this season.

"They are working well together. Junior has been creating some chances for Ready. The pair could have got a couple of more goals each," Knight added.

Regan defies injury to show East promise

HARLOW Athletic Club member Regan Lawrence defied an Achilles injury to claim a silver and a bronze medal in the Eastern and Essex Athletics Indoor Championships.

Regan - having knocked his Achilles tendon a few days before the competition - was able to run 8.65sec in heat one of the U13s 60m race and then 8.61 in the final, taking third in both on Saturday.

He then broke his 200m PB, running 28.43, to bag him a silver medal.

Club-mate Mohammed Tamedou ran a personal best (PB) of 6.98sec in the 60m, which ranks him 15th in the UK U20s.

At the Hertfordshire County Schools Cross Country Championships on Saturday, HAC's Lottie Rowedder won the intermediate girls' 4km race, despite being a year younger than most competitors.

Lottie will now represent Herts at the English Schools Championships.

Achievement

"For Lottie this is a huge achievement as she's only been running with us for two years after being talent spotted at a parkrun event," beamed HAC coach Paul Bailey.

"I am thrilled for Lottie with this win, as she's trained really, really hard, making steady progress and is a lovely young person who is really popular at HAC."

In the junior boys' 3km race, Ben Sloan was 14th and twin brother Sam was 23rd.

At the South of England Schools Inter Counties Championships at Bexhill Down near Hastings on Saturday, Charlotte Pratt (HAC) represented Essex Schools.

In the junior girls' race over 3.6km she was 76th from a very large field, in 12min 47sec.

In the intermediate boys' race, club-mate Lewis Harknett, also representing Essex Schools, was 24th and third Essex finisher over 5.5km in 19:10.

Harlow have received confirmation that Lewis Harknett, Lottie Rowedder, Joe Owen, Charlotte Pratt and Savanna Sirkett will compete at Birmingham in the English National Inter Counties Championships next month.

Saracens treat for rugby players

HARLOW Rugby Club players Shannon Bowering and Olivia Duckmanton got a treat on Sunday when they played at Allianz Park, Saracens' plush new home ground.

The pair (pictured) played in the Harlow/Old Albanian U15s cluster team against Surrey U15s county squad, which their opponents won 47-0.

Both girls played in the second row position for the whole game.

Harlow's U18 player Katie Boggas and U15 Ellie Lennon were both away at a weekend training camp at Ashford as the London and South East Divisional squads prepare for matches on March 20.

Meanwhile, Harlow U18 player Sam Atkins attended an Essex pitch up and play day at Eton Manor.

Around 80 U13s, U15s and U18s took part in the Essex event to promote girls rugby.

The next Essex Girls Festival will be held at Harlow on Sunday March 13.

Harlow men's second team got some pride back for the club when they won 29-13 at home to Epping Upper Clapton's second XV in an Intermediate Cup match on Saturday.

The men's first team are at home to Stowmarket in Division Three North East this Saturday.
